

THE UNDERSTUDY PROGRAMME PACK

A named Namibian, trained, for every non-Namibian you employ

Section 19(3) of the Affirmative Action (Employment) Act 29 of 1998 requires a relevant employer to train a Namibian citizen as the understudy of every non-Namibian citizen it employs. This pack is the working record of one understudy relationship.

THE RELATIONSHIP

Non-Namibian role holder: _____ Position: _____

Namibian understudy: _____ Current position: _____

Target role: _____ Planned handover date: _____

PART 1: SKILLS GAP ANALYSIS

Competency required for the target role	Required level	Current level	Action to close the gap

PART 2: DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Milestone (training, exposure, responsibility)	Evidence to be kept	Target date	Status

PART 3: PERFORMANCE CLAUSE FOR THE ROLE HOLDER

Insert into the non-Namibian employee’s performance agreement, so that skills transfer is measured and paid, not left to goodwill.

"A key performance area of this role is the structured transfer of skills to the appointed understudy, [name], against the development plan dated [date]. Performance against this area will be assessed at each review, on the documented evidence, and carries a weighting of [] percent of the overall assessment. The role holder is accountable for the understudy being able to perform the agreed elements of the role by [handover date]."

PART 4: REVIEW RECORD

Review at least quarterly. This is the record a review officer asks for.

Date	Progress against the plan	Evidence attached	Understudy	Role holder

An exemption where the trade or profession is too specialised must be applied for under section 19(4). It is not automatic.
